

Name of project	BANG Edutainment
Location	Northwest London, UK
Organisation leading the project	BANG Edutainment

Project purpose

BANG Edutainment works mainly with disaffected young people from Black and Minority Ethnic backgrounds, helping them to use their talents and gain skills to secure employment and qualifications in creative industries. BANG edutainment is a charity working in Harlesden, Northwest London.

Project approach

Through engagement on BANG edutainment's youth-focused FM radio station, young people gain broadcasting skills in music and commentary. BANG edutainment's training centre provides opportunity for young people to develop their skills further and to gain recognised qualifications in the music and media industry in tandem with working on the radio station.

Key benefits and impact

- BANG edutainment is the only organisation in the locality offering young people work-based learning opportunities in the music and creative industries. Its positive impact on the lives of young people has been recognised by the local council.
- The charity works with young people who have low prior educational attainment and supports them to gain accredited qualifications.
